

The aim of this assignment is to develop a Generative AI Application that extracts action items from a given document and generates a new document in which it presents them in a particular layout that is selected by user. The application will use a Large Language Model (LLM) to process and learn the content of the document and extract key action items, which will be presented to the user in a layout chosen from a list of predefined layouts.